
Research Center for Social Issues

The Center investigates science-culture relationship, models of a society with low birth rate and longevity, social safety systems and more, in order to conceive a framework of a new social system anticipating the future. In addition, studies on the R&D and innovation policies for promoting technological innovation of the national and local governments as well as business companies are conducted jointly with Research Center on Policy Analysis.

- Science and technology versus culture
- Prospects of the future of Japan
- Searching the real problem in the Japanese society
- A model for vigorous society with low birth rate and longevity
- Social systems that provide life free from anxiety
- Risk management and crisis management

